GeoFund Geothermal Workshop Istanbul, Turkey – February 16-19, 2009

Partnership International, Inc in partnership with the International Geothermal Association has received financing from the World Bank toward the cost of the implementation of GeoFund Workshop for Europe Central Asia this Feb 16-19, 2009 in Istanbul, Turkey.

The goal of the Workshop is for Europe Central Asia energy officials and businesses to enable geothermal development via World Bank and IFC GeoFund as well as private sector financing. These GeoFunds will enable the develop of bankable geothermal existing and greenfield projects, and help mitigate the risk of explorations. As outlined by the World Bank's GeoFund initiative, the aim is to disperse these funds for geothermal developments in 2009:

Direct Investment: GeoFund, via the World Bank, will support selected project developers by providing low cost loans, contingent grants and outright grants which would cover part of the project cost through monetization of external benefits. GeoFund via the IFC, the GeoFund will help improve the performance of existing geothermal installations through renovation of existing facilities, and will support bankable business plans greenfield facilities where the resources are promising.

Geological Risk Insurance Window: GeoFund will partially insure project developers/investors against the short-term and medium-term geological risks. This insurance will help mitigate the risks associated with geothermal energy exploration.

The Workshop will narrow the scope to select countries: The World Bank's GeoFund has indentified greenfield countries ready to initiate geothermal projects. As Turkey is presently privatizing over 30 sites, and has abundant geothermal potential Turkey will be given most of the focus. In addition, other ECA country ministries will be invited if they are sponsored.
